- Upon opening the link, a LWU chatbot assistant greets you and you can type in whatever you need help with.

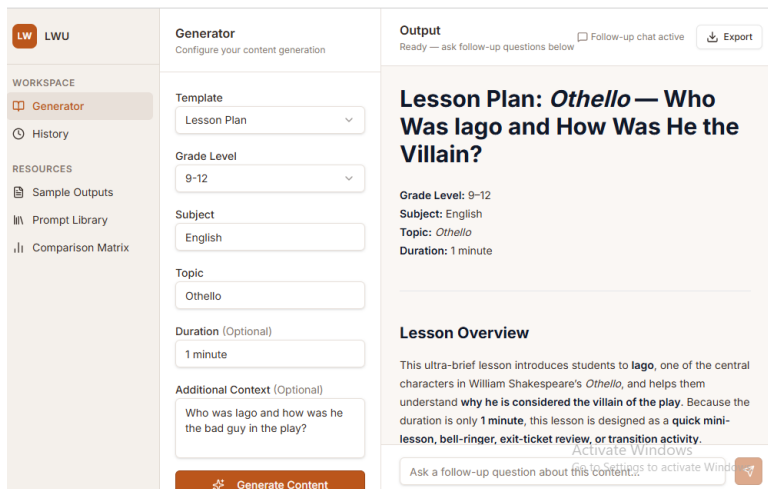

The screenshot shows the LWU Generator tool interface. On the left is a sidebar with a navigation menu containing 'Generator' (selected), 'History', 'Sample Outputs', 'Prompt Library', and 'Comparison Matrix'. The main area is divided into two panels. The 'Generator' panel on the left contains form fields for 'Template' (a dropdown), 'Grade Level' (a dropdown), 'Subject' (a text input with 'e.g. Life Sciences'), 'Topic' (a text input with 'e.g. Biodiversity in the Fynbos Bic'), 'Duration (Optional)' (a text input with 'e.g. 45 minutes'), and 'Additional Context (Optional)' (a text input with 'Any specific requirements...'). A 'Generate Content' button is at the bottom of this panel. The 'Output' panel on the right contains a chat window titled 'LWU Assistant Teaching companion'. The chat window shows a greeting: 'Hello, and welcome. I'm glad you're here and ready to create something useful for teaching and learning. I can help you make lesson plans, quizzes, worksheets, rubrics, unit plans, discussion questions, and study guides. What would you like to create today?'. Below the chat window is a text input field with 'I'd like to learn about photosynthesis at pr' and a send button. At the bottom of the output panel, there is a watermark that says 'Activate Windows' and 'Go to Settings to activate Windows.'
